Search group start study of applicants

Government-City Editor

Eastern's search committee for selection of a new president will begin review of credentials of candidates next week, Terry Weidner, committee chairperson, said Monday.

The committee will on either Monday or Tuesday receive from the Board of Governors (BOG) search committee a list of candidates who have applied for the president's post, Weidner said.

The two committees have been set up by the BOG to recommend a replacement for resigning President Gilbert C. Fite.

Weidner said the two committees met together last week to determine what role each committee would have in the Eastern's committee will be given all applications for the president's post, and will be allowed to review all credentials, Weidner said.

The BOG had previously planned to allow Eastern's committee to see only a certain number of applications, Weidner said.

In addition, Weidner said the two committees decided to move the date for naming new president from September to October, in order to interview all candidates after the summer semester break.

A list of qualifications for the president were also approved at the meeting, Weidner said, which will allow

"These qualifications screen out no one," Weidner said.

"I think everyone had automatically assumed that applications would not be taken from Eastern's campus."

Weidner said he did not know how many had applied from Eastern.

In other committee business, Weidner said that one of the student members, Mark Wisser, had taken a job in Chicago and has missed the first two meetings.

Weidner said, however, that Wisser had told him last semester that he would be on campus when the committee began reviewing credentials.

Wisser could not be reached for comment.

Hadwiger gets appointment as dean of graduate school

Sandy Pietrzak
Campus Editor

Following a three-year search for a dean of the graduate school, Kenneth Hadwiger was appointed to the position July 20 by President Gilbert C. Fite.

Hadwiger, who has been serving as acting dean for the past year, is replacing Marvin Hamand of the history department, who resigned three years ago. From a list of 44 applications received by the university this year for the position, the names of three candidates were submitted by the eight member search committee to Fite.

Terry Griffith, committee chairperson, said Monday that throughout the three years the search was hampered because few people considered for the position were invited to take it but declined.

He explained that the first year of the search, one person chosen did decline; it was then too late in the year for the committee to continue its screening. Last year "we found no suitable

Hadwiger explained Monday that the main duties as dean include an academic function, in which his office "monitors and advises" graduate students.

He also said that he deals with external grants and contracts, such as things relating to contracts and research and also publicizing sources of grants and contracts.

A third function deals with on-campus research, consisting of his responsibility for research projects and decisions on what proposals should be funded and what should be rejected.

Hadwiger said that he enjoyed his year as acting dean, admitting that "professionally, I enjoyed it but physically it was too much for one man and two secretaries to handle," adding that an increase in staff has been promised for the coming year.

"We didn't have time to do any single thing exceptionally well," he added.

He viewed his year as acting dean as an educational experience and is looking forward to the coming year.

Funds could run out for fall financial aids

By Sandy Pietrzak
Campus Editor

The outlook for student aid in the 1976-77 school year at Eastern will be comparable to last year, but with the possibility funds will run out by the end of the year.

Financial Aids Director Ross Lyman said Friday that "an exhaustion of our resources for the coming year" may be caused by the greater number of students applying for aid earlier than last year.

Lyman said the need demonstration formula for institutionally based programs "has been updated" so that "larger percentages of students are eligible for aid now."

"The Illinois State Scholarship Commission, in not making summer awards, drained our reserve of loan funds for this summer and will put further pressure on next summer awards," he explained.

Adding that "we can see the impact," Lyman said that "those are dollars we can't loan out next year."

Recently, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) awarded more than $943 million to post-secondary education institutions across the United States to support student financial aids programs in which Illinois received $41 million.

"Eastern will get a proportionate share based on applications" and the approval of the HEW's panel (region 5), Lyman said.

Appropriations will be provided to the federally funded Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants (SEOG), the National Direct Student Loan (NDSL) and the College Work-Study (CW-S) programs.

Breaking down the appropriation, Illinois will be awarded $10.7 million for the SEOG program, $14.4 million for the NDSL program and $16.3 million for the CW-S program.

"On these three programs, we'll have approximately the same dollars available to students as we have had this year," Lyman said.

He also said the "biggest variable" in the basic Educational Opportunity Grant (BEOG) this year is that all students are eligible for the award rather than only freshmen, sophomores and juniors, as was the case in 1975-76.

"The (Eastern) BEOG program has already received as many student eligibility reports as we have in 1975-76," Lyman said, adding that he anticipates "an increase of approximately at least one-third in the number of participants next year."

The result will be an increase in BEOG appropriations of $250,000 to $300,000.

However, Lyman did express optimism toward state and federal support for student financial aid in some form in the future.

To succeed Lyman July 1

Sparks new Aids director

By Karen Knupp
staff writer

Sue Sparks, associate director of financial aids, has been appointed director of financial aids assuming the position July 1.

Sparks, who has served as associate director since 1971, has been acting director for a year and a half during this time.

Because of this experience, Sparks said, "I don't anticipate any problems," but added that there are some internal changes she plans to implement.

Among these plans is the formation of a financial aids policy committee to be composed of "members from outside the office," she said.

The new committee will "set up policy for awarding financial aids, within government guidelines," Sparks said, and will also handle appeals from students.

Sparks, who received her bachelor degree from Central Missouri State College and a master's degree in education from Eastern, presently chairs two financial aid groups — the Research Committee of the Midwest Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators and a committee of financial aid officers of public four-year institutions working for the passage of the Illinois Student Employment Assistance Act.

She is succeeding Ross Lyman who is retiring after serving as financial aids director since 1961.

Summer enrollment drops from last year

Andy Pietrzak
Sous Editor

Eastern's summer enrollment figure, falling 3,138, is a 7.8 per cent decrease from last summer, Sam Taber, Dean of student academic services, said Tuesday. The number of freshmen, readmits and transfer students are up, Taber continued, but the number of students continuing in the spring semester is down. Reasons for the decrease from last summer's enrollment, which was 3,406 include the non-availability of Illinois State Scholarship funds and that "maybe some students need jobs for the summer," he said.

Concerning the enrollment, Taber said that "we would like to have more than that" but added that the figure was "not as low as we thought it would be."

Vice President for Student Affairs Glenn Williams said Tuesday that "the total figure is higher than I'd expected."

"The two significant figures to be concerned with are the number of transfer students, particularly freshmen and sophomores (this year, 296 as compared with 204 last summer), and the other is first-time freshmen (196 this year, 189 last year).

In a breakdown of the total, full-time students number 2,106; part time, 1,032; undergraduates, 2,183; graduates, 955.

There are 366 freshmen, 303 sophomores, 502 juniors and 1,012 seniors.

Men total 1,522 with women numbering 1,616.

Petitions available

Petitions will be available at 8 a.m. Thursday in the student government office for students who wish to be members of the summer student senate, Senate Speaker Dan Fowler said Friday.

Each summer the senate accepts a certain number of students who petition into, and serve for the summer.

Five summer seats are open Fowler said, and petitions with 25 signatures should be turned in by 5 p.m. Tuesday to the student government office.

Applicants will be interviewed by the Legislative Leadership committee and Fowler, with final approval from the senate, Fowler said.

Fite okays next year's student activity budgets

Fite also signed into approval the Eastern News budget of $17,915 in student fees. The remainder of the News budget is made up from an income of approximately $63,978.

Under a plan initiated by the AB, and approved by Fite, students in leadership positions in activities can receive tuition waivers on a three-level program.

The plan was formed to replace salaries received by certain activities with tuition waivers for several activities.

Activities whose budgets were approved as submitted by the Portionment Board (AB) were the University Board ($215,060); Health Service ($50,900); General Music ($9,000); and Forensics ($11,000).

Also approved were Radio Station WELH ($14,288); Vehicle ($520); Sports and Recreation ($32,000); Model United Nations ($1,825); Art Board ($5,050); Chess ($13,800); Warbler ($37,240); Players ($16,500) and Student Senate ($9,322).

The organizations whose salaries were cut were the News, the Warbler and the Vehicle.

The News will receive 90 per cent of the $18,000 it budgeted for salaries next year.

The plan stipulates that following next year, the student body president and the Eastern News editor will be the only students receiving salaries funded through the AB.

Poorly placed signs do little to lower danger

The Charleston City Council deserves a couple of roses for banning right turns on red at the intersection of Fourth Street and Lincoln Avenue.

And, the State of Illinois deserves the thorns from those roses for the placing of the "no right turn on red" signs. The signs are poorly placed and in order to be seen require someone who knows what they're looking for.

Westbound on Lincoln Avenue, there are three stoplights on the right-hand side of the intersection.

There are also three signs. Two read "obey your signal only," and one reads "no right turn on red."

The two obedience signs are placed on the two most readily noticed stoplights. The sign prohibiting right turns is placed on the stoplight farthest from the intersection.

It is not clear as to why there are such obedience signs because there is no right turn light and ordinarily, not too many people make it a habit to run red lights.

It also is not clear as to why the no right turn sign is placed on just one stoplight and then on the light farthest from the intersection.

A driver intending to make a right turn on red must make sure he/she scans all three lights in order to find the one sign which makes his/her intention unlawful and subject to a fine.

The situation is the same when a car is southbound on Fourth street and intending to make a right turn on red. Once again the sign is placed on the light farthest from the driver's view and the intersection.

Most Illinois cities that have nixed right turns on red have signs at each stoplight. It may not be necessary to have signs on each stoplight on the right side, but why aren't those in Charleston located so that the drivers won't have to scan three lights to find one sign?

The city council agreed to prohibit the right turns on red following letters from student government leaders requesting such action. The letters stated that students were in possible danger of "death or dismemberment." That danger does not decrease much if the signs are poorly placed.

Student government has also sent a letter to the council requesting right turns on red be prohibited at the intersection of Seventh Street and Lincoln Avenue.

Let's hope the council follows suit and bans right turns on red there. But let's hope the state comes through this time with better placement of the sign or signs.

The making of a president--the first president--General George

WASHINGTON — On the 200th anniversary of the United States, it is only fair to speculate how George Washington would do if his presidential campaign was being managed by some of the people who are involved with today's campaigns.

"George, you're a very popular figure, but the fact you won the war for us doesn't necessarily mean you'll be elected as the first President of the United States. We're going to have to work on your image."

"What do you suggest?"

"Well, for a starter, you're going to have to get rid of those wooden teeth. We're going to have to get you some ivory ones that shine so when you smile everyone can see them."

"I have no intention of smiling. I hate to smile. Have you ever seen one painting of me smiling?"

"All right, forget the teeth. We need a slogan that will catch the imagination of the 13 states."

"How about 'Vote for a man who has never been to Washington'?"

"You are Washington, George."

"I meant Washington, D.C."

"There is no Washington, D.C. It won't be named that until after you die. If you're elected, you're going to have to live in New York and Philadelphia."

"Well, I'm not sure I want to be President if I can't live in Washington, D.C."

"It doesn't make any difference where you live. The important thing is to get you elected as the first President of the United States."

"I'm not certain I want to be the first President of the United States."

Art

"But don't you see that if you are, you will go down in history as the 'Father of Our Country.' If you don't go for it, John Adams will. We have to launch a 'Stop Adams Campaign,' and you're the only one who can do it."

"He's not a bad fellow."

"George, would you want the capital of the United States to be called Adams, D.C.?"

"No, I guess not. What do you want me to do?"

"First, we have to show that you're completely honest. The question is, how do we do it?"

"What if I say that if I am elected, I will never lie to the American people."

"That's good, but how do we dramatize it?"

"Well, I never told anyone this story. But when I was a kid, we had this cherry tree on our plantation and I went out with an ax and chopped it down. It was my father's favorite tree, and he was really mad, so he said, 'George, do you know who chopped down my cherry tree?' I still had the ax in my hand so I figured I'd better tell the truth and said, 'I did it father' — and he whaled the living daylights out of me, just for one lousy cherry tree."

"That's beautiful. We'll put out a press release on that story right away. The papers will eat it up. Anything else you can tell us that will help the campaign?"

"I once threw a silver dollar across the Potomac."

"You'd better not talk about that. It might give the taxpayers the impression you're willing to throw away their money."

"Wait a minute. Let's not reject that out of hand. Suppose we say George threw a silver dollar across the Potomac and then swam over to retrieve it. It would show he really cared for a buck."

"But, gentlemen, that would be a lie."

"Look, George, every President of the United States is going to have to lie to the people sooner or later. If you start a precedent of absolutely no lying, no one will ever be able to govern the country."

"I hadn't thought of that. Okay, you can say I swam over and got it back."

"Great, we'll leak it to the papers. Now what about detente with the Indians?"

"What about it?"

"We'll say you're for better relations with the Indians, but detente is a two-way street. If they want to buy grain from us, they're going to have to give us Ohio."

"Why do we need Ohio?"

"We need Ohio, just in case John Adams wins the primary in Pennsylvania."

True confessions of an ex-Boys Stater

I confess.

Yes, I too was once a member of that adolescent elite, the young, upright junior citizen worthy of the title "Boys Stater."

The phone call actually surprised me. The local American Legion Post is sponsoring a couple of kids at Boys State this year, and we've chosen your name to be one of them. Would you like to go?" Without questioning how many others had already turned it down, I answered with my best decisiveness for a high school junior, "I'll have to think about it."

Now, Boys State at that time wasn't the glamorous affair one sees here with participants residing in luxurious Stevenson Tower, with all the facilities Eastern has to offer like the Union and Lantz Pool.

No, we were real troopers at the Springfield State Fairgrounds living in the barracks where instead of suites we got bunk beds 40 or so in a line and instead of pinball and bowling the biggest entertainment was deciding which kind of cigarettes to buy.

I guess my heart wasn't in it from the start. While other teenage politicians were plotting their campaigns to be Governor of Boys State, or head of their political party, I ran for City Alderman--the lowest post there was.

I won in a landslide, three votes for me to one for my opponent.

I was a resident of McNutt County, one of the fictional voting zones dividing up Boys State. Of course, Boys State thrives on competition and the goal was to win points for your county through various means--athletics, elections, chess, etc.

McNutt Co. had its share of go-getters, but by consensus I think the majority of us conceded defeat very early, which gave us plenty of time to distinguish McNutt in other manners.

Yet I did gain some valuable and lasting political insight from my week in the mock democracy.

After days of pseudo-political speeches, campaign promises, debates and similar election tools, the candidate for Governor managed to swing the election by running through the barracks on the night before the vote screaming out his name and beating a huge bass drum.

And that's how I came to be a journalist.

Elevator takes women captive but help comes before panic

A strange thing happened to Gertrude Neff and Matyl Manhart, both of Charleston, on their way to the duplicating center Monday night.

An apparent malfunction in the Union addition elevator caused them to be trapped in the elevator for about five minutes before help could come.

Union Personnel were unavailable for comment on why the elevator stopped, but Mrs. Neff offered one theory.

"There was foam in the lone space in the elevator," Neff said. "I think water could have seeped into a wire somewhere."

Neff added that the presence of about 1,000 boys at Eastern this week for Boys State may have something to do with the foam's appearance in the phone booth.

"I'm a retired schoolteacher -- I know how boys are," she said.

Manhart said she was not alarmed during her stay in the elevator, although she said it was the first time it had ever happened to her.

"I've read stories and seen it in movies about what can happen, but I wasn't too scared," she said.

Neff also said she wasn't scared because, "I'm a big girl now."

The two were discovered by two Boys Staters, who went to get help.

Fowler elected as speaker

By Lori Miller
Government-City Editor

Dan Fowler was elected as speaker of the summer Student Senate Thursday by a vote of 9-0.

Fowler was nominated by Senator Bill Halleran and received no opposition in the election.

Fowler had served one term in senate during spring as the chairperson of the housing committee.

In other business, the senate voted to send a letter to the Charleston City Council asking that right turns on the stop signal be banned on the corner of Seventh Street and Lincoln Avenue.

Earlier in the year, the city council banned right turns on red at the corner of Fourth Street and Lincoln Avenue, prompted by a letter from former Senate Speaker Bill Scaggs and Student Body President Mick Chizmar.

Also during the meeting Executive Vice President Randy Kob, who is acting as student body president for the summer, appointed Rick Kehoe to the Student Supreme Court.

Kehoe will be interviewed by the senate's legislative leadership committee and must be approved by the senate.

If Kehoe is approved by the senate he will serve on the court for the summer semester only, unless he is reappointed by the fall senate.

In other business, the senate voted to send a letter to several administrators asking that people in student government be allowed to use state-owned university cars for travel to out-of-town meetings.

The letter, sponsored by Halleran, will be sent to Vice President for Student Affairs Glenn Williams, and states that student government can use the cars for Board of Governors meetings only, while other organizations can use the cars for various purposes.

However, an employee in Central Stores, which monitors use of the cars, said students were currently only allowed to use the cars with a faculty or staff person.

Teaching workshops held weekly

Eastern's Occupational Teacher Education committee has organized one-week workshops on topics concerning vocational education legislation with hopes of allowing for better acquaintance with people and ideas involved in the area.

Nationally recognized figures will be appearing at the workshops along with video and telephonic presentations.

The first two workshops, held the first two weeks of the semester, dealt with current and pending financial legislation and requests for proposals from various government agencies.

The final two workshops will deal with reviews of local and state programs and the effect of pending legislation.

Each workshop may be enrolled for through Eastern's Office of Continuing Education at the beginning of each week. One hour of graduate credit may be earned for each workshop.

The course is listed in the departments of Home Economics, Business Education, Industrial Arts, Health Education and Educational Psychology and Guidance.

The remaining workshops will be held June 21-26 and June 28-July 1.

ROTC, new courses okayed

By Sandy Pietrzak
Campus Editor

A number of courses, including a cross-town air force ROTC program between Eastern and the University of Illinois (U. of I.), were approved Monday by the Council on Academic Affairs (CAA).

The ROTC program will enable Eastern students to take ROTC courses at the U. of I. and receive credit for them towards graduation.

A new course in earth science, "Oceanography," will become part of the earth science major in the spring of 1977.

Also a new English course, "Technical Writing," geared toward the upper class student will be offered.

James Quivey, English department head, told the CAA that the course was originally suggested by the chemistry department, adding that "technical writing is a rapidly developing career."

CAA representative Charles Switzer explained that heads of the industrial arts and technology, psychology, physics and home economics departments have been receptive to the possibility of including the course as an elective within their majors' programs.

Also, a new course in elementary education and one in special education, "Introduction to Bilingual/Bicultural Education" and "Vocational Development for the Handicapped Student" respectively, were approved.

Budget advances

A fiscal 1977 operating budget of about $19.3 million for Eastern was sent last week to the Illinois House by the House Appropriations Committee.

The budget, chopped down from the $21.3 million originally requested by Eastern, was unchanged from recent approval by the Illinois Senate.

Eastern's initial request had been cut by the Board of Higher Education (BHE) to $20.2 million in January, and then slashed again in April to $19 million at the request of Gov. Dan Walker.

But the budget to be considered by the House is up about $350,000 from Walker's recommendation, President Gilbert Fite said.

The BHE had originally proposed a total budget of $865.5 million for Illinois colleges and universities, but Walker in March submitted a fiscal 1977 budget that allowed less than $806 million for higher education.

Cycle clinic set

The second session of a beginning motorcycle riding course will be held from 5 to 7 p.m. beginning Monday and continuing daily through July 2.

The course is being offered through the cooperation of Furry Brothers-Kawasaki and the Illinois Department of Transportation.

The class will be taught on the multiple car driving range adjacent to O'Brien Field.

The only cost is a $5 registration fee. All equipment is furnished. The course is for Coles County residents 15 years of age and older.

Registration may be made at the office of Continuing Education, or by calling 581-5116.

Salyers appeals civil suit decision

Former History Department member James Salyers has appealed the recent dismissal of two counts of a civil suit he filed against Eastern.

Salyers, who was dismissed from his history teaching duties in March of 1973, requested the Illinois Supreme Court hear the appeal of two counts dismissed last month by Circuit Judge Carl Lund in summary judgement.

In the suit Salyers charged that the university wrongfully dismissed him with notice of right to a prior hearing, and that by dismissing him Salyers had been denied a chance to complete doctoral work, thereby diminishing possible income. Lund's decision, requested by Eastern, effect dismissed those two counts, but left unaffected two other counts seeking $100,000 each from President Gilbert and History Department Chairperson Wolfgang Schlauch for alleged slander.

The suit stems from Salyer's suspension from the university on March 19, 1973 for what was termed "unprofessional and unbecoming conduct."

Salyers allegedly wrote a series of letters carrying the fictitious signature of "Delbert Funkenheimer" criticizing History Department members for publishing articles described in the letters as "sheer quackery."

Fowler lists projects for summer senate

By Lori Miller
Government-City Editor

The role of the summer Student Senate will be to do background work on several projects to bring for approval to the fall senate, Summer Senate Speaker Dan Fowler said Friday.

Fowler was unanimously elected speaker at the senate's first meeting Thursday.

Projects the senate will work on this summer include setting up student voter registration, continuing revisions of the student government constitution and studying the student faculty boards for possible restructuring.

"One major change I'd like to see is in the student court system," Fowler said. "Senate should review the new guidelines which have been introduced for the courts, and work out a way to implement them."

Fowler is a sophomore political science major from Glendale Heights.

He has served one term on senate as the chairperson of the senate's housing committee.

Republicans to meet

The College Republicans will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Oakland Room of the Union addition.

"I think there's a real good spirit of cooperation in the senate this summer which extends throughout student government," Fowler said. "The senate can work pretty well together and with the executive officers."

Fowler also commented on a proposal to divide the campus into precincts for student government elections.

"The senate's housing committee should look at the details of these proposals and look into what merit they have," he said.

"The precinct proposal is good sounding, but we need to investigate how feasible it would be, especially in terms of setting up boundaries and getting the names of students," he added.

During spring semester, Fowler sponsored a motion that called for "drastic changes" to be made in the system of student evaluation of teachers, before the senate allocated funds for the project.

Later in the semester the senate approved a motion increasing the number of questions for use in the evaluations.

Fowler said Friday the senate's next objective concerning teacher evaluation is to increase faculty participation.

"We've increased the number of questions to be published," Fowler said. "I think next we should get more faculty involved and iron out any other problems with the questions."

Fowler said he foresees no problems in working with the senate.

Activities can rescue students from ELU summertime blues

By Denise Hesler
staff writer

Looking for something to do between classes besides study? Why not investigate one of many activities open to students on Eastern's campus for little or no charge?

For the bowlers, a bowling alley is located in the basement level of the Union. The cost per line is $.55 with ID and shoes can be rented for $.15.

Summer hours are daily 12-10:00 p.m., Sunday 4-10:00 p.m. and Saturday 4-10:30 p.m.

Students wishing to participate in the co-ed league may still sign up at the bowling alley.

The league began Tuesday and will meet on Tuesday nights at 7:00 p.m.

Three pool tables are also available for use in the Union Bowling Alley. Cost is $1.00 an hour.

Several activities are held in the Lantz and Buzzard buildings. An information sheet distributed by the Recreation and Intramural Office says these activities are open to all students free of charge.

Playing equipment, not including athletic clothing and swimming gear, will be provided. Student ID cards are necessary for obtaining equipment.

Swimming is offered in the Lantz pool. The hours open to students are Monday through Friday 4-6 p.m., Tuesday and Thursday evenings 7-9 p.m. and Saturdays and Sundays 3-5 p.m.

Square and folk dancing is offered on Mondays in McAfee South Gym. The session, which is held from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m., includes an instructional period as well as a free dance period.

Other activities offered are badminton, racquetball, volleyball, handball, table tennis, gymnastics, shuffleboard, weight lifting, basketball, and fitness programs.

The hours for these activities, which are held in Lantz and Buzzard buildings, are Tuesday and Thursday evenings 7-9 p.m., Saturdays 1-5 p.m. and Sundays 3-5 p.m.

For students interested in intramural sports, many programs are still open. Intramural softball entries must be in by June 18, and basketball and co-rec volleyball entries must be in by June 23.

Board to inspect lake

Lake Charleston will undergo inspection this week by the County Health Board to determine if it is clean enough to open it for swimmers, Charleston Mayor Bob Hickman said Monday.

Hickman said the Board would probably know by Wednesday if the lake can be opened.

The lake has been closed to swimmers for the past three years due to pollution.

Hickman said the city could open the lake, but he would prefer to "have the Board's okay" on the matter first.

Fite to be honored at two dinners

Retiring Eastern President Gilbert C. Fite will be honored at a dinner in the University Union Ballroom at 6:30 p.m. July 27.

The event is being arranged through the university in co-operation with the Faculty Senate and the Eastern Alumni Association.

Several speakers have been invited, but it is not known at this time how many will be able to attend. Speakers invited include representatives from several areas of the university and the surrounding community.

The dinner is also open to the general public, tickets costing $6.00 per person.

Kenneth E. Hesler, director of university relations, said reservations for the dinner may be obtained in the Office of University Relations, M109 Old Main.

"Invitations are being mailed to members of the faculty and others in the community, but reservations will be accepted from any interested person. I am sure we have missed someone who would like to attend the event," Hesler said.

President Fite will be leaving Eastern in September to take the Richard B. Russel professorship of history at the University of Georgia.

President Fite will also be honored Wednesday at a dinner in Springfield by the Board of Governors (BOG).

The BOG will meet Thursday in Springfield to hear reports from executive officer Donald E. Walters on the fiscal 1977 and 1978 budgets, collective bargaining, tuition and affirmative action.

Bicentennial feat may be city's biggest parade

With over 1,000 participants and 90 different categories, the Charleston Bicentennial Parade may be the biggest ever in Charleston.

The parade will begin 9:30 a.m. Saturday at Tyler and Sixth Streets and continue down Sixth St., around the Square and back down Seventh St. and end at Polk St.

Bill Browning, executive vice president of the Charleston Area Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the Bicentennial parade committee, said the parade would last about an hour and a half.

Included in the parade will be five floats that were constructed by decorating companies in Terre Haute, Ind., several mini-floats, five Shriner units, bands and color guards.

Robert "Flute" Snyder, of Eastern's music department, will lead a threesome of drummer boy, flute player and flag bearer in the parade.

Also in the parade will be several antique cars, the Bicentennial Model T, the state's official Bicentennial car, and over 1,000 representatives of the American Legion sponsored Boy's State program.

Musical satire to be presented

The midwest premiere of "Candide," the musical comedy version of Voltaire's satire on Pollyanna-like optimists will be at 8 p.m. June 25 in the University Theatre's Playroom, Fine Arts Center.

The musical comedy will also be presented at 8 p.m. on June 26, July 2 and 3 and at 2 p.m. on June 27.

The show has a musical score by Leonard Bernstein. Voltaire's sardonic story, a classic since he wrote it in 1758, has been adapted for song and dance by Hugh Wheeler.

"Candide" was originally, and remains in this musical version, a "picaresque novel" in reverse. In picaresque novels, a hero fearlessly rushes from one hazardous adventure to another, rescuing damsel in distress from dastardly villains by his audacity and swordmanship skills. Candide is no such fellow.

Terry Kelly will play the guileless hero, Candide. Deborah Timblin will appear as his equally innocent, though often ravished, sweetheart, Cunegonde.

Michael Boyll will have the show's next most important role—or rather collection of roles—as he will quintuple as Voltaire himself, as the hypocritical Dr. Pangloss, as a lascivious South American governor, as a host at a sadistic dinner party, and finally as the sage who gives Candide the formula for finding happiness.

Vicki Jackson will play the dauntless Old Lady who has suffered almost as many punishments as Candide. Mary Anne Barlow and Robert Biggs will appear as another pair from Candide's home country of Westphalia, who share many of his calamities.

Twelve others will be in the cast, performing the parts of soldiers, priests, strumpets, aristocrats, inquisitors, sailors, pirates, eunuchs, and other species in the Voltaire zoo.

E. G. Gabbard is the director and C. P. Blanchette is designing the scenery. Delbert Simon and Alice Stoughton are the show's musical director and choreographer, respectively. Costume designer is Nancy Paule.

Tickets for "Candide" will be available beginning Monday at the Fine Arts Ticket Office. The ticket office will be open from 1 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Tickets are $2.50 for adults, $1.50 for youth and $1 for EIU students. There are no reserved seats, but reservations can be made by phoning 581-3110.

Health proposal tabled

A resolution to establish a Coles County Health Department was tabled Monday by the Coles County Board.

The resolution, which will be brought up again next month, asks for $7,000 in "new" money to be added to money already doled out to various organizations that would come under the proposed department's control.

A Health Department would be responsible for overseeing and administering health programs county-wide.

Programs such as the upcoming swine flu immunization (for which $4,000 was appropriated Monday), tuberculosis prevention and mosquito control would be placed under control of the proposed department.

Energy computer to be installed by end of July

With installation of Eastern's new Mark VII energy computer running smoothly, completion is expected in late July, Harley Holt, vice president for business services, said recently.

Originally, a July 1 deadline was stipulated in the installation contract but Holt explained that "we never expected to make it."

Devised by the IBM Company, the computer system is wired to university buildings to conserve energy by controlling the heating the cooling systems.

It consists of a control panel connected to a large motor with an entire loop that is hooked to the computer and programmed to turn off and on at stated intervals.

The Monitor Tech Co. of Indianapolis, Ind. is installing the system, on which the base bid was $64,000. However, Eastern "took an alternative for additional buildings" raising the cost to $90,000, Holt said previously.

Utilization of the computer was expected to save Eastern $80,000, but because of higher rates this will not be accomplished. Holt did say, though, that it will keep the university from spending more.

Boys State: 'compressed course in civics'

By Denise Hesler
staff writer

The number of students on Eastern's campus has increased by more than a third this past week, but none of the newcomers are attending university classes nor are they planning to stay long.

This sudden increase is not due to a leap in enrollment but instead to the arrival of 1,000 boys who are attending the 41st annual American Legion Boys State program.

Aged 15 to 17, these boys come from all over Illinois and will be on Eastern's campus through Saturday.

During their week-long stay at Eastern, the boys participate in a number of activities. Much of their time is spent attending sessions on the executive, legislative, judicial and electoral processes of government and conducting mock elections.

Karl Yost, the President of the Board of Directors for Boys State, said the main function of the program is to provide a "compressed course in civics."

As part of their training, the boys will hear a number of government officials, including Lt. Gov. Neil Hartigan, Secretary of State Michael Howlett and State Comptroller George Lindberg.

Yost said the boys were chosen to attend the program by their high schools on the basis of their academic rank and participation in high school activities.

They are usually sponsored by the local American Legion Post or a civic organization.

In talking about Boys State, Yost praised Eastern as the site for the annual camp.

Members of the Boys State color guard.

"We're delighted to be at Eastern. The facilities are excellent and we have received splendid cooperation from everybody connected with the program," Yost said.

He said Boys State looked at a number of other state universities before choosing Eastern as a site for the program.

"We decided to locate at Eastern because of the fine physical layout and compact campus," Yost said.

Scheduling and coordinating the Boys State program for the university is Phil Lindberg, Director of Arrangements.

Lindberg said the boys are divided into 32 cities, eight counties, and two political parties, all mythical. They then participate in elections for offices on the city county and statewide levels.

During this time, Lindberg said, the boys are "educated in the operations of four different kinds of voting procedures — paper ballots, the lever-type voting machines, the new video voters and the punch card system."

By this process, the boys are given "practical experience in city and state government," Lindberg said.

Music and sports are two other activities the Boys State group is participating in. The sports program includes a track meet to be held at 2 p.m. Friday at O'Brien Field, basketball, tennis, touch football and volleyball games.

The music program consists of a 560-member band. The band practices every day, gives a concert every night and will lead Charleston's Bicentennial Parade on Saturday.

Boys State was organized in 1934 by Hays Kennedy soon after the Communist movement began in the United States.

The Communists started a pioneer camp and introduced to the American students the ways of the Communist party and system, Lindberg said.

Lindberg said to counteract this movement, Kennedy decided to form a camp which would teach the functions and operations of the American way of life, its government and its system.

From 1934 to 1973, the Boys State camp was held at the state fairgrounds in Springfield.

Warble, Tucker drafted by pro ball teams

By Otis Benefor
staff writer

Brad Warble and Bill Tucker, two outstanding athletes from Eastern were selected by professional basketball and baseball teams respectively in the annual player drafts last Wednesday.

Warble, a 1976 graduate, was selected by the Phoenix Suns on the seventh round of the NBA draft while pitcher Bill Tucker was chosen by the Atlanta Braves on the 16th round of the major league baseball draft.

Warble, captain of the Panthers and the team's most valuable player during the last two seasons, is the first Panther player ever selected by a National Basketball Association (NBA) team.

Warble's selection by the Suns does not guarantee him a spot on the team though, until he proves his mettle to play as a pro in a trial camp with other draftees and the Suns' old hands.

Should Warble fail to make the Suns' team, he could play for the Athletes in Action Club based in Indianapolis, Ind. The AIA is a pro wing of Campus Crusade for Christ and is composed of outstanding college graduate basketball players who fail to gain positions on the NBA or ABA teams. "This is an extremely positive experience for anybody involved," said Panther Coach Don Eddy, who believes Warble's selection is good publicity for Eastern and should enhance the Panthers' basketball program.

Warble has played for Eastern since his sophomore year.

He was a forward most of the time but his qualities as a utility player, his team concept skill, dominant character and ball sense earned him the pro position.

What Warble lacks, according to Eddy, is scoring ability which he would need to improve.

Although the Panthers did very well this season, the 6-6, 200-pound Warble had a disappointing year, finishing the 1975-76 campaign with an average of just under 10 points and seven rebounds a game.

This resulted from the knee injury Warble sustained in midseason which kept him inactive for a while.

"Warble came here (Eastern) unheralded," notes Eddy, "But he developed through practice, dedication and concentration, which are the hallmarks of every great sportsman."

Since Warble started playing for the Panthers, the team has improved from year to year, recording a win-loss of 14-12, 20-8, 23-8 for the last three seasons. Warble will be joining a strong team, as the Suns finished runners-up to the Boston Celtics two weeks ago in the NBA Championship series.

Eddy observes that Phoenix's style of play is similar to Eastern's which should be an advantage to Warble.

NBA teams draft through 10 rounds and Warble was taken ahead of Illinois State forward Randy Henry who was taken by Detroit on the eighth round, and ahead of Otho Tucker of the University of Illinois who went to the Celtics on the final round.

Meanwhile, Warble who was married Sunday, is reported to be honeymooning in Jamaica.

Bill Tucker, the Panther southpaw has the honor of being selected for the second time by a major league team.

Tucker was first chosen by the Chicago White Sox in 1973 after his senior year at Chicago Heights High School.

This season, Tucker had an 8-3 record with a 3.83 earned run average while he struck out 82 batters in 77 innings — an average of more than one strikeout per inning.

He also had two shutouts.

In addition, Tucker averaged a strikeout an inning in each of the last two seasons with the Charleston-Mattoon Twins in the Central Illinois Collegiate League (CICL).

This summer he is playing in an amateur league in Kansas.

Tucker has one more year of eligibility at Eastern under Coach J.W. Sanders but is 21 years old and, thus, is eligible to be drafted.

Twins sport female umpire

For the first time in the history of the Charleston-Mattoon Twins, a female will be the base umpire.

And not only is she the only woman on the umpire roster for the Central Illinois Collegiate League (CICL) of which the Twins are members, but she is Eastern Senior Lisa Snapp.

Snapp, a Physical Education and Health major from Mattoon, first became involved in umpiring men's baseball working for the Mattoon Warriors, a Babe Ruth team whose members range in age from 13-18.

The CICL league is made up of about six teams and is the last step before the minors.

In order to meet the requirements for becoming an umpire, Snapp said she was required to take an open book written exam.

Snapp said she will be umpiring three times for the Twins the summer, and mentioned there are about thirty umpires listed on the CICL umpire roster.

Snapp said the pay is $20 for a single game, $28 for a doubleheader, and there is 10 cents paid per mile.

In talking about how she thinks the men will react to her as umpire, Snapp said they expect more because she is a female, but she added that she had found out quickly "you cannot please everybody."

"In times past when it has been felt I've made a bad call, I've heard heckling from the dugout like, 'A woman's place is in the kitchen,'" Snapp said.

In comparing her experience in umpiring men's and women's leagues, Snapp said attitudes obviously varied between age groups.

"I think men are more apt to be outspoken than women," Snapp said.

"They don't necessarily argue, but make comments, whereas women have a tendency to be less outspoken," Snapp added.

Snapp's first game is June 25 when the Twins face the Bloomington Bobcats.

Twins sweep home games

By Mickey Rendok
Sports Editor

In just two home games, the Charleston-Mattoon Twins swept a 6-4 and 11-0 pair of victories from the Bloomington Bobcats and Peoria Pacers respectively.

Against the Bobcats, it was a fifth inning solo homer by designated hitter Pete Kasperski that broke the tie allowing the Twins victory.

Leftfielder Doug Craig singled up the middle in the seventh to add the extra insurance marker.

Holding their opponent to just five hits was the deciding factor in the Twins' shutout against the Pacers.

Twins' pitcher Dewey Robinson struck out five and walked four.

In the Twins' half of the first inning against the Bobcats, it was a line drive to leftfield by first baseman Don Walker which drove in the first Twin run, scoring centerfielder John Cifelli.

Cifelli reached first on a walk and was advanced to second on a groundout by Joe Bennett.

Additional runs in that inning were anticipated by the Twins when a force-out at second put men at first and third.

Marty Albertson stole second, but Kasperski failed to bring home the runners when he was called out on strikes.

In the top of the second, it appeared as if the Bobcats might tally some points after a line drive to leftfield by pitcher Jim Olivieri drove in a run from third.

With the bases loaded though, short stop Kurt Bruksch was called out on strikes.

Another Twin rally came in the bottom of the third when first baseman Walker advanced Bennett to third on a ball to center.

Craig Robinson slapped the ball to center scoring the runner from third.

After a walk to first baseman Kurt Swearingen in the top of the fourth for the Bobcats, catcher Mike Karabin placed a double to rightfield scoring Swearingen.

Two additional runs came home later that inning triggered by a wild pitch.

With runners at second and third, a single to shallow center by Bruksch brought home the runners tying the score 4-4.

Kasperski's solo homer in the bottom of the fifth proved to be the winning run although Bloomington outfielders claimed the ball bounced over the fence.

Base umpire Chuck Budde ruled the drive cleared the fence.

Catcher Craig Robinson found a hole in center to set up the final scoring opportunity for the Twins.

A shot in rightfield by Kasperski put men on first and second, allowing an opportunity to give Craig a turn at bat.

A hard grounder up the middle drove in the baserunner from second, again putting Twins' runners at first and second.

Shortstop Jeff Gossett loaded the bases with a shot to right field, but both Bill Marcuzzo and Cifelli flied out to center to retire the sides.

The Bobcats failed to rally in their half of the eighth.

Against the Pacers, the Twins scored three runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings and added two additional scores in the seventh.
